has purchased the Monisomery House and property on Ed and O at., West Washington, from Ed. L. Lyin, where he has permanently located himself for business. Good for that! He has very much improved the botel and made it a car hotel and boarding house, and, by the way, the Motton oplitan Street Railread runs by the house, making it easy of access to the Departments. He has also opened a fine family grocery store adjoining the hotel, with a view to the accommodation of his large country and city trade. He has always been one of our most energetic business men, and THE CHITIC appreciates all such, and wish him success in his new enterprise.

All Day VEETERDay the immates of Mag Smith's establishment, in Slate alley, were fighting and quarreling with each other, and raising Hades generally, for the diversion of the residents of the vicinity. Officer Breen was finally summoned to the scene of action, and succeeded in capturing Mag Smith; the proprietries, together with Kote White and Rese Smith, all colored. There are seven inmates in the house, and when the approach of the representative of the law was known, there was a general stamped through the windows, doors and back entrance to the heatelry. The girls caught were all in a semiliatoxicated condition, and, disregarding the presence of the officer, continued to swear vengeance against their opponents. Many of the colored residents of the alley were in court to-day, and stated that the defendants were very disorderly, and life was made almost unbearable by their drunken and riotous conduct, and that they were frequently compelled to close their windows to keep from seeing sights unworthy of human beings. Judge Snell imposed a fine of $25 on the landlady.

A PROFESSIONAL BONDSMAN Offers Himself as Security for William F. Salter—The Court Beelines to Accept Him.

Mr. W. Freston Williamson made another unsuccessful effort to get his client, William F. Salter, out of all this morning. He offered Robert E. Boston, colored, as surety. Boston was questioned as to his qualifications, and that examination led to other inquiries being made. It was developed that Boston's property, as represented by the papers, was worth about $5,000; that he was on the bond of Mr. Fritchard for $2,000, and had forfeited another. Upon being pressed he admitted that he received a consideration in becoming surety for a man, and that in the case of Fritchard he was paid $50 for going on the bond, at the same time he was not acquainted with the same time he was not acquainted with the same time he was some very severe comments upon this procedure. He thought it to be a process of purchasing seeape from justice, because if a man was guilty and wished to evade trial, all that he needed was to purchase a professional bondsman. He had no pationze to talk about such matters, but positively refused to accept such surety, and thought that all such men should be exposed, and if the defendant destred his liberty, it would have to be obtained in a different manner. iam F. What is Going on in the Social World

What is Going on in the Social World.
One of the most attractive young girls growing up among us to a future belieship is Miss Ramsdell. She is of medium height, with large, caim, gray eyes, well-defined cychrows, a low, broad forehead, clear features and coloring, and an air of repose that is traily representing in this day of "slang and slouch," as an energetic Western writer calls it.
Captain and Mrs. Haxsil, who have been visiting their friend, General Beverly Robortson, have returned to their home in Virginia. Captain Haxail is the proprietor of the celebrated mills that go by his name, and his title is a relic of the war days, when he rode—one of the most galant and dashing figures on "the other side"—as adjutant to General Robertson. His wife was the Miss Triplett who spent two winters here in the early half of the severates, and was such a favorite in our society. She was one of the "Three Graces" who began their reign in Richmond just as the war closed. The other two were Miss Lillie Cabelland Miss Mattle Ould, the daughter of Judge Robert Ould. They were good types of Virginia beauty, Mrs. Haxail being a pure blonde, Miss Ould a sparking demi-brunete, and Miss Lillie a fascinating medium. They are quoted to the rising generations of belies as a standard to which they may hope, but never expect, to attain, although Miss Emily Triplett is fast following in their footsteps.

The special fascination of Mrs. Langtry is said to be fast she "looks so well washed and clean, just like a child just out of a bath." Now this is worthy of note, for a celebrated of beauty, whose complexion at Sixy was fresher than that of our women of thirty, told mo her secret this summer, and it was divided into two parts: First—the never used washing of the source of satisfaction to the morning of the crows' feet is the going of the beaux feet."

The Fresident, among a multitude of social graces, is capable of a neat pun on occasion. The other evening, in conversation with a few friends, a newspaper paragraph to the effect that John Logan is in the habit of dyeing his hair and mustache to conceal the ravages of time was adverted to, whereupon the Fresident quickly responded, "Oh, no! that can't be true; John is a Stalwart, and they never dye!"

The New Pension Building.

To the Editor of The Econing Unitic:

The Star is out with a fierce editorial against placing the new Fension building in one of the many large parks. Is the Star in a new real-estate pool, or is it interested in solling the shell and fire-trap at the corner of Tweltin street and Fennsylvania avenue for a permanent Fension building? It would seem as if a paper which belonged to the party who laid seventy miles of rotten wood pavements, the party of the Feather-Duster Legislature, the real-estate pool of the West End, the safe burglay and the other infullibes of the last ten years, by which $50,000,000 were expended, aquandered and stelen, leaving a permanent debt of $22,000,000, would now be very chary in advocating any kind of public improvement; and then a paper which gloats over every Republican defeat, and triumph of the Democratic party, and has always been a secret member of the Dem. Jack. Ass., ought not to give any advice to a Republican administration upon any important measure. Let the editor wait until his party comes into power before he attempts to fix things gonarally.

The Star says that we need the parks for The New Pension Building.

istration upon any important measure. Let the editor wait until his party comes into power before he attempts to fix things gonarally.

The Star says that we need the parks for treathing places, when the fact is that more than half of the area of the city is avonues, streets parks and receivations, and from the Capitol round to the White House, about 400 acres, is one continuous park. And if it would be wrong to place the Pension building in some part of these greet parks, then the Capitol, city Hall, Smithsonian and new Museum. Agricultural Department, Printing building, het house and the White House were unvisely placed. A large party of gentlemen, having no interest in any real estate pool or the sale of any fire shell for a permanent Pension building, have been advocating that this very important building should be placed in the Judiciary Square, Important building should be placed in the Judiciary Square, Important building should be placed in the Judiciary Square, Important building should be placed in the Judiciary Square, Important building should be placed in the Judiciary Square, Important building should be placed in the Judiciary Square, Important building should be placed in the Judiciary Square, Important would not be large grounds; the building could have a good basement, well distincted would be healthy, free from noise and dust; be surrounded with treason many advantages, it could not be turned. By any great counting rule in the city, the permanent fension building should be so placed that the records of the soliders who saved the Union could not be burned. By the surfect is the soliders who saved the Union could not be burned. By the surfect is surfected and surfer of the soliders who saved the Union could not be burned. The vicinity of Eighth and A streets southcast was very much disarranged last night by a running fight between a colored man and his saffron-hired spouse. Loud cries and sundry thumps made up a programme which arcused the whole neighborhood from its husband with unfaithfulness, and throatened to "cut his heart out," which she tried to do last night upon his arrival home. The people thereabouts have no direct interest in the quarrel, but unit in line wish that the pair be either pacitied or muzzled, as their perturbations are of almost nightly occurrence.

THE "WIZARD'S" STUDIO.

a Glimpse of His Wonderful Work at the National Museum—Exhibits in Course of Preparation to be Sent Abroad. Sent Abroad. In a remote room up under the gable in one corner of the National Museum there can be tound every day, briskly at work, a tall, intelligent man, with long black whiskers, who is styled by the museum habitues "The Wiszrd." This man is J. W. Hondley, a Virginian by birth, and an artist gifted with the most won-derful talent. Beneath the workings of his skillful fingers plaster, celluloid, wax, papter mache, clay and other substances are transformed into lifelike representations of Fish, Flesh and Fowl, man and beast, and the products of nature generally.

His artistic ability is truly miraculous and in foreign countries would be prized almost as beyond price. In America, however, the people are too busily engaged looking after dollars and cents, and it is only occasionally that the art student and genius is discovered and properly brought into public notoriety. This artist's obscure workroom at the Museum presents a sense of rare interest, and, were it allowable, would doubtless be througed daily by sight-seeing visitors, it is a study, and the many beautiful objects there form a collection which will interest a visitor for hours. For instance: Hanging here and there are Bunches of Fish, a Rabbit or a Bunch of Birds.

These are so perfectly natural that it requires a close inspection to satisfy ons that that they are artificial. On a window-pane an ordinary house fly is noticed. It is useless to attempt to brush the fly away. It is simply a fac simile of the pestiferous little creature, and as perfect as life. A glass case, containing flowers and fruit most tempthely disas simile of the pestilerous little creature, and as perfect as life. A glass case, containing flowers and fruit most temptingly displayed, sits in one corner of the room, and on a dish on a stand near by a lot of Malaga and purple grapes, cut by hand out of celluloid, invite the visitors' attention. The half of a luscious-looking canteleupe, apples, peaches and julcy-like plums are scattered about, and a fellow is tempted to pick one up, but does not, as a placated, "hands on," forbide. Cherries of various varieties, statuctos, and many other beautiful creations of the wizard's gentus, are scattered around, but the most attractive and really wonderful objects are

Two Life-Sized Negroes, just completed, as a part of the exhibit of the cuited States to be sent to the International Exposition of the Fishertes to be held in London, England. These figures will be placed on either side of a large shield, which will be properly embellished with emblematic representations of our great fisheries. One—a man about 25 years of age—wears the garb of the cysterman of the Chesapeake Bay.

He holds an our in his hands, and is poised as if about pushing his boat away from the sheer. The other figure, an 18-year-old youth, wears the proverbial Ethiopian grin upon his face, and he, too, carries an ear, but is apparently not using it, but appears amused at something near by, toward, which his distended eyes are turned. These figures will be placed out exhibition in the Museum before being sent abroad, and will certainly reduct the utmost credit upon their creator, "The Wizard."

Letter From Henry George.

Letter From Henry George. Henry George writes from New York to Mr. A. M. Kenaday, president of the Federation of Labor Unions in this city, in response to the invitation to lecture before that body, as follives, "I want to come to Washington and would like to lecture there; but I have not yet had time to make my plans, and will write you as soon as I can block them out, which will be in a few days.

Yours as ever,
"HENRY GEORGE.

For Every Housekeeper's Eye. It is asionishing what an interest exists over the reduction of the sale of fresh means, fruits and vegetables at the southwest corner of Second and F streets northwest. Popular prices are charged for choice cuts of beer, and amb, veal, pork and sausagefare all sold on a similar plan, the motto being quick sales and small profits. Orders by postal card promptly attended to.

YESTERDAY afternoon a man named Thomas Vance was robbed of $10 in the smithsonian Grounds. The thief was promptly pursued by Special Watchman McCormack, but succeeded in making his escape. This morning the secondrel, a victous-looking black man, was captured by Omicer Breen, of the Fitth Precinct station. The testimony in court showed that the culprit begged Mr. Vance to give him a few cents to buy something to cat. Mr. Vance took out his pocketbook to give him the money asked for, when the thief snatched it away and ran. The culprit gave his name as Maddox. The case was continued until temerrow.

SOUTH WASHINGTON.

Mr. A. F. Barker, the well-known archi separated from the other, allowing a spacious passageway on each side. They will be faced with ornamental red bricks, and when thushed will add much to the architectural optender of South Washington. Each house will lawe from rooms, and he ornamental with galvanized-fron cornices, and he provided with all of the latest improvements. One of the houses has already been seld in advance three will also be for sale. It is the intention of Mr. Barker to complete the houses and have three will also be for sale. It is the intention of Mr. Barker to complete the houses and have them ready for occupancy in the spring. Many costly and handsome houses have exemily been ersected on B street, and doubtless before many years it will become a prominent theroughtare of South Washington. There is no more desirable street for residences in the city, for the entire distance from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing to Sixth street passes the parks, and cool air in the summer can always be had, and the entire length of the street is thoroughly paved. Already a large missiber of leading families reside on the street intersecting the eastern end of B street, and nowhere in the city can better society privileges be enjoyed.

The Washington Light Infantry Cadets will elect, three regular lieutenants next Friday night. The cocasion will be one of grave importance to the company, and a full strendance of members should be at Blake's Heil at an early hour.

Eastern Lodge, No. 7, L. O. O. F., will give a grand complimentary entertainment at Odd-Fellows' Hall on Friday night, October 27, Professor Blachof, Mr. H. Schutter, Mr. J. B. Tayler, Mr. Buchanau, Miss Katie Scott and Mrs. McGuen will furnish vocal and instrumental music, while Professor Townsend and the Misses Perry and Sanders will give recitations. The order and its friends are expected to attend in full force, to rample arrangements have already been made. J. T. ALEXANDRIA AFFAIRS.

ALEXANDRIA AFFAIRS.

The prospects of a resumption of operations at the works of the Potomic Manufacturing Company in this city has revived the hopes of the property owners in this city. It is said that fires in the furnaces at the works will be lighted to morrow morning, and that the manufacture of iron will be continued right along. Some of the workmen who have been off on a furlough have been notified to be at the works to morrow morning, and the report is that the machinery for a rolling-mill will arrive here in a short time, and that the capacity of the works is to be increased. The news is very welcome to Alexandrians, and they desire to believe that all the promises of the company are to be increased. The news is very welcome to Alexandrians, and they desire to believe that all the promises of the company are to be unifiled. Captain Goss, the new president of the company, has not yet returned from his trip to California, but his arrival is daily expected. The planking on the three-masted schooner being built at the shirtyrad of the company has almost been comploted, and the work is being pushed with a view of getting he vessel of the stocks early in November.

The difficulty in the Third (colored) Baptist Church, Rev. Fields Cook, a prominent politician, pastor, is still unsettled. On Monday night, a week ago, the pastor and his followers were refused admission to the church, and Sunday last Rev. Wm. Jefferson, of Washington, preached in the church. The pastor was sllowed to occupy a seat in the pulpit on condition that he would not attempt to preach, the deciral say that the pastor has been notified that his services are no longer required, and he must go.

Nev. John E. Massey, the Democratic candidate for Congressman-at-Large, arrived in this city last night, and was escorted to Green's Mansion House by a committee of the Young Men's Democratic Club. The old man will speak at Fairfax Courthouse to-day, and in this city lonight.

Two freight trains on the Virginia Midian Railway collided between New Glasgow and Amberst yesterday, and the cars of both trains were badly damaged, Captain H. D. Luckett, assistant roadmaster, father of Captain J. T. Luckett, of this city, was killed, and Will Grigg, engineer of one of the trains, was injured. The romains of Captain Luckett were interred at Amberst to-day.

The destruction of Mr. Johnson's house, in Arlington, Alexandria County, yesterday, is supposed to be the work of an inconducy. Mr. Johnson a few days ago killed a colored man for robbing his prehard, and the colored people of his neighborhood are very muon embitured against him.

Harriet Davis, colored, a white satior and a white tramp are in the station-house this morning awaiting trial for disorderly conduct.
